Health Dimensions Group Launches Strategic Collaboration with Nationally-recognized Home Health Consultant

Jane Gorwin to help lead expansion of home health and hospice division

Minneapolis, MN, June 3, 2010 - Health Dimensions Group (HDG), one of the nation's leading senior-focused health care management and consulting firms, is pleased to announce its affiliation with Jane Gorwin, a nationally-recognized and respected home health and hospice consultant.

Gorwin will provide HDG with strategic direction and management-related leadership to the organization's expanded continuum of care focus on post-acute services. The company provides a variety of tailored solutions based on the specific needs of hospital-based or long-term care-based organizations planning to expand their post-acute offerings to provide home health and hospice.

Gorwin's 25-plus years of experience in health care includes more than eight years as a nationally-recognized consultant for home health, hospice, private duty and other health care entities. She was the administrator and vice president of operations for InCare Health Services and served as chief clinical and compliance executive at Sutter Health System Home Care. She also held leadership roles with Scripps Memorial Hospital in La Jolla, Calif., and Grant Hospital in Chicago.

"I'm honored to be working with the HDG team," Gorwin said. "I'm looking forward to assisting with the growth and enhancement of home health and hospice consulting services, especially with hospital-based systems and long-term care facilities – a critical portion of the post-acute continuum of care in today's health care environment."

Gorwin earned a bachelor's degree in nursing from DePaul University in Chicago and a master's degree in organizational management from the University of Phoenix.

“Jane Gorwin brings to our organization a wealth of health care knowledge, proven consulting expertise and extensive management leadership experience to our organization,” said HDG CEO Craig Abbott. “We’re pleased and proud to collaborate with her as we expand our home health and hospice division’s services to both current and prospective clients.”
